Directions: Read the dialogue aloud with your teacher.

Max and Demi have a talk about Mexico's ancient civilization city, Teotihuacan, which Demi has recently visited.

Demi : I am telling you, it was fascinating. There were many pyramids and a long avenue, called the Avenue of the Dead.

Max : To be honest, I don't know much about the old Mayan civilization, apart from what I've seen in the movies.

Demi : Well, at its peak, the city was the largest city in the Americas. It is believed that Teotihuacan was a multiethnic state.

Max : But who were the founders?

Demi : Unfortunately, that is still uncertain. There were some speculations, but there is no definite answer.

Max : Interesting. What else did you see and learn?

Demi : The city's name actually means "Birthplace of the Gods". Oh speaking of gods, it is believed that they dedicated human sacrifices to the gods above.

Max : Yes, I have heard about that. It sounds scary.

Demi : Yes. And what else...we went to the museum and we saw many interesting masks and statues and vessels, all very expressive!

Max : Art is definitely something I am interested in. I wish I could see those too.

Demi : I hope you go there one day!
